Foreword

One of the most striking visible features of Northport High is its lovely campus-style buildings spread across spacious grounds and connected by a network of covered and uncovered walks. Most of us have noticed with a chuckle that sparrows nest in the coverings and peer out at us with great interest.

The first job of a yearbook is to sum up the four years we have spent at Northport with perspective and a fresh viewpoint. So, when a little bird suggested that we use as our theme A Bird's-Eye View of Northport High, we decided it was a good idea.

Let there be no mistake — we're proud as peacocks to be the Seniors of '61, and we intend to crow about it from cover to cover. Still, we hope you won't mind if our theme throughout is light as a feather.

Dedication

Dear Mr. Fazio:

You know most of us, and we all know you. You and our four years of high school are so completely intertwined that we will never remember Northport High without remembering you.

We met you first as our Freshman counselor. We will remember the confidence we had in your sense of fair play, in your dependably honest, sometimes blunt straightforwardness, in your dedicated, intelligent efficiency. We will remember your perception and sense of humor that helped us through so many tense moments. We will remember the firm but sympathetic way you guided—not pushed us—to the solution of problems which we thought insurmountable. You were our counselor over the years, unofficially as well as officially.

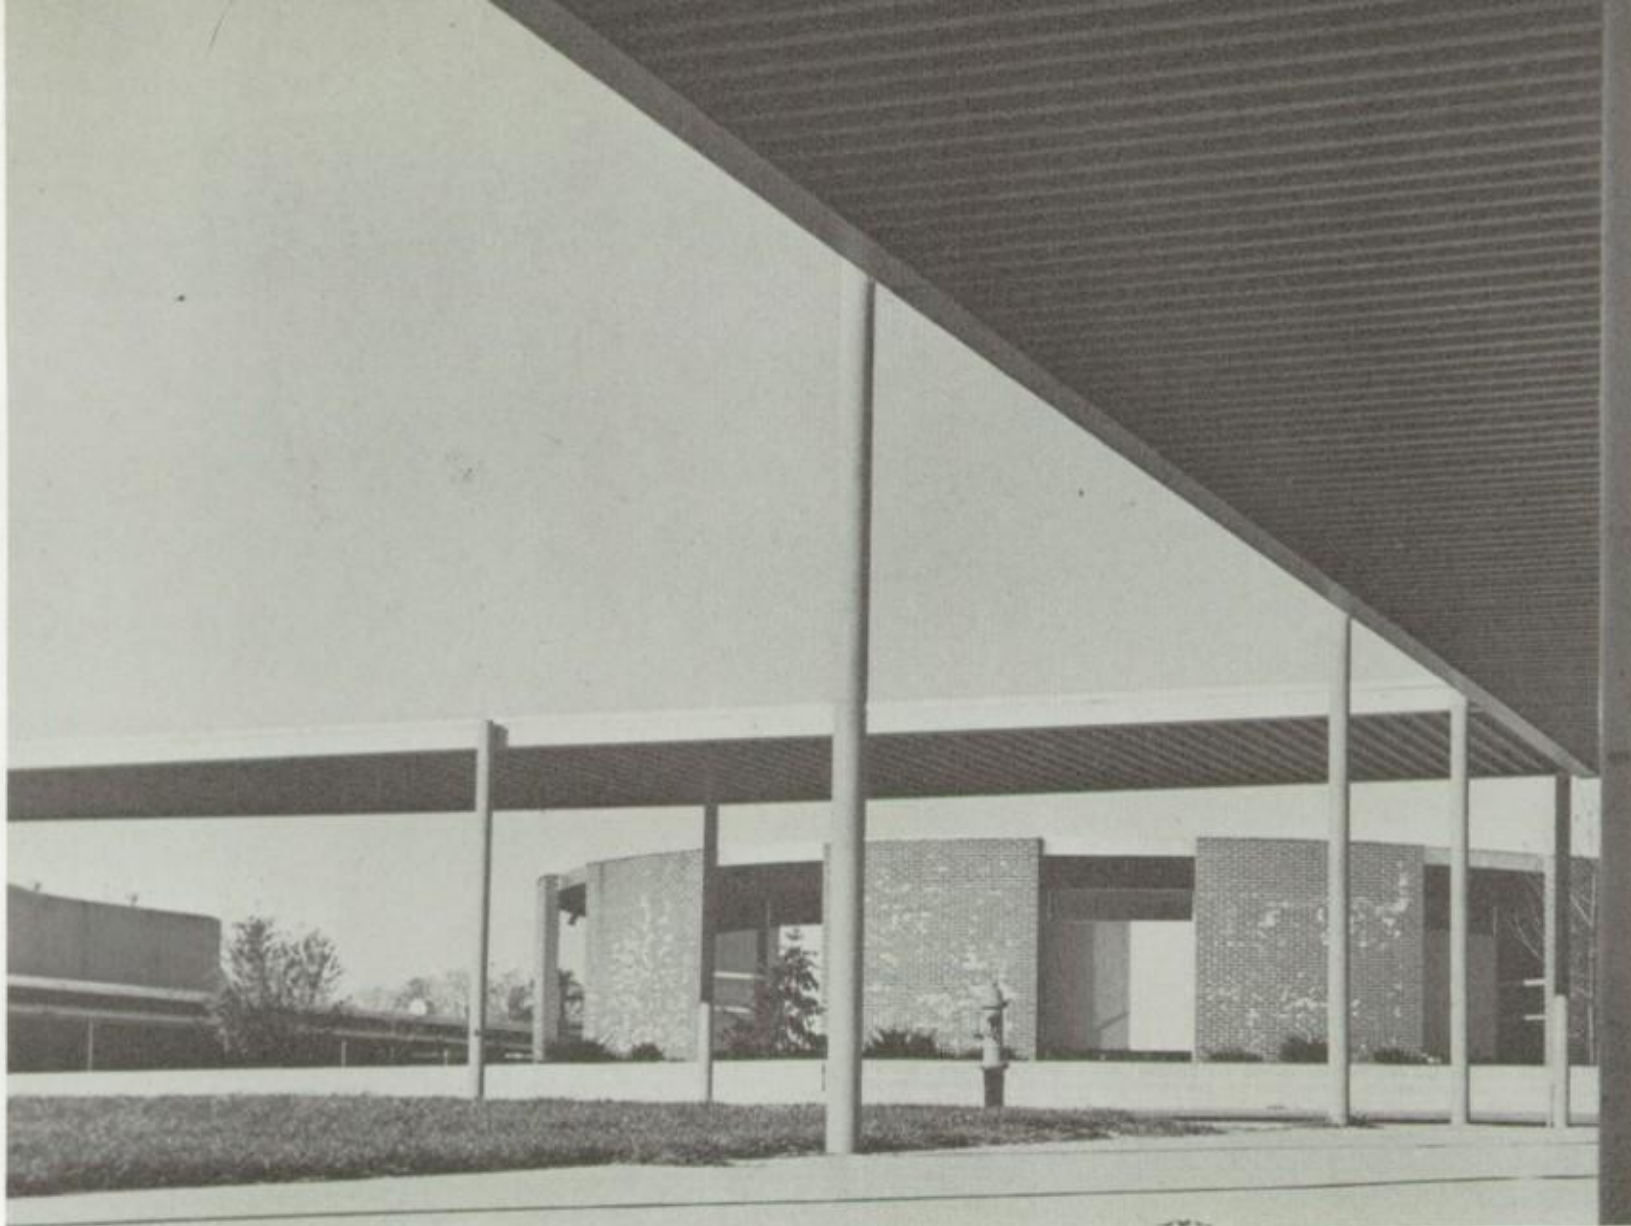

We will remember, in all, what a really fine person you were, and how the very things that we so unanimously respected in you won you the position of Assistant Principal in our Senior year.

Some of us will remember you as a stern but just disciplinarian; others will recall your running to stop a bus leaving before all the students had boarded. But we will all remember.

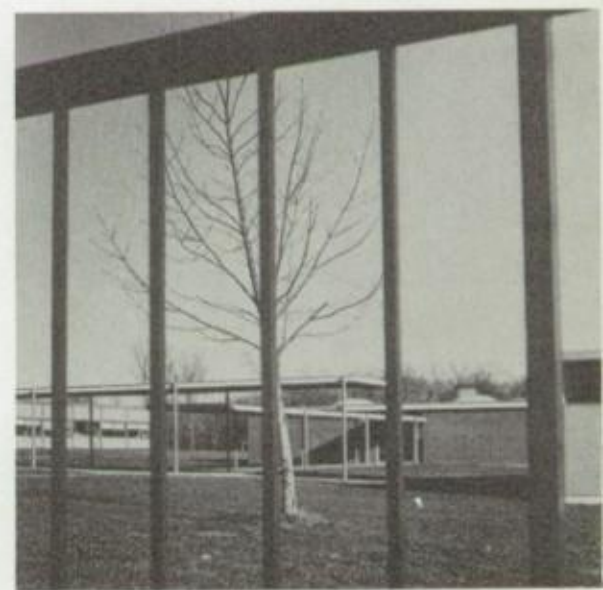

Because this book is the catalogue of our memories of high school, we want to dedicate it to you as a token of our gratitude and respect.

Business Department

The Business Department shoulders a large responsibility in the training of students for the business world. Many students after graduation go directly into business offices; this requires a certain education not only in the fundamentals, but also in poise and business skills. Moreover, this department, especially in a community such as ours, carries another responsibility. Besides teaching the basic groundwork to business students, they help the college-bound student acquire skills in typing and shorthand—valuable skills to have in college.

The members of the department perform other duties which are appreciated by both the students and the administration. They type up notices and tests which lessens the burden of teachers, and they lend their skills to clubs and organizations. Mr. Milkes, department chairman, for example, is advisor to the F.T.A., Mr. Wakem is an advisor to TIGER INKLINGS, and Mr. Dropkin manages the G.O. Store. This store is another service to the school. While the students can buy supplies on campus, business majors have an opportunity to use their skills in actual practice in the operation of the store.

Potentially one of the most valuable departments of the modern high school faculty is the history or social studies department. To it falls the job of building good citizens — proud Americans, realistically informed of their country's past, interested in its present, and concerned for its future.

JULIAN MILKES
Never write in a typing class.

L. to R., Samuel Teichner, Helen Alton, Walter Webb.

Art Department

The Art Department offers the student a variety of courses, all of which are of practical value. Here he may enjoy the thrill of creating, with the opportunity to do independent thinking and to exercise his imagination. He is given a chance to cultivate worthwhile hobbies or to prepare for a career in the arts if he so desires.

Art students have received national recognition each year in high school art competitions. Northport took the grand award in 1949 and again in 1960 in the National Traffic Safety Poster Contest sponsored by the A.A.A.

In June 1960, the students of Mrs. Alton and Mr. Webb took part in the first annual "Festival of Art and Music." It was held at the picturesque Village Park, Northport Harbor. The festival was enjoyed by over two thousand visitors and proclaimed a huge success.

Mr. Teichner, who holds his classes in the art rooms, is doing special work with a group of students. We are indeed fortunate to have a man of his sensitivity and patience on the staff.

L. to R., George Marenchin, Donald Zale, Robert Krueger.

HELEN ALTON
Another Picasso, perhaps?

ROBERT KRUEGER
Our music man.

Music Department

Our Music Department truly deserves more credit than we can give it in one short summary. Mr. Krueger and Mr. Marenchin, working in unison, have brought the high school music program up to one of the most outstanding and highly praised in the community and indeed in the state. The twirlers and marching band, under the direction of Mr. Krueger, and the chorus, under the direction of Mr. Marenchin, have won countless prizes for their talented performances. The progress that has been made through the cooperation of the teachers and pupils should make every Northport High student proud.

This year the Music Department and the whole school system were saddened by the death of the young orchestra director, Mr. Donald F. Zale. Mr. Zale was both a talented musician and teacher.

L. to R., John Ryder, Beatrice Barlie, Sandra Schaedel, Robert Krapf.

BEATRICE BARLIE

Don't forget your gym suits, girls.

Physical Education Department

JOHN RYDER
All right, gentlemen!

The Physical Education Department balances the academic aspects of education. Students must train and exercise their bodies as well as their intellects if they are to become useful adults. Gym classes and after-school athletics help them in this, providing a constructive and healthy outlet for their energy and drive.

If the status of our teams is any indication, the department has been highly successful. Coach Ryder's football team was county champions. In basketball and tennis we have also done extremely well; in fact all our teams, girls' and boys', have ranked high in interscholastic competitions.

To the department's advantage are Northport's excellent sports equipment and facilities as well as the skilled help of many teachers from other departments. These include: Mr. Willets, Mr. Jacobowitz—basketball and football; Mr. Buonomo—wrestling; Mr. Livingstone, Mr. Kelly, Mr. Latino—football; Mr. Andersen, Mr. Baitinger—tennis; and Mr. Blumenthal—sports announcer.

Driver Education Department

L. to R., Otto Baitinger, Leonard Jacobowitz.

Learning to drive is not too difficult, but learning to drive safely is a different matter. Briefly, teaching students to drive properly while under the supervision of an objective instructor is the main purpose of the Driver Education Department.

The members of this department are Mr. Baitinger and Mr. Jacobowitz. Both these men try to impress their students with the facts that (1) driving and drinking don't mix, and (2) a good attitude toward employing the correct driving skills is a necessity. The success of their efforts is evidenced by the fact that last year one of our now Senior girls won first prize for girls in Suffolk County in a driving test designed to emphasize basic skills.

The direct benefits of Driver Education are shown in the lower accident rates for graduates of this course.

English Department

A key-stone in an effective high school curriculum is the English Department, whose job it is to develop student ability to read, write, speak, and think clearly. Toward this end, Northport has assembled a fine group of teachers of the communicative arts.

Mr. Saxe, department chairman, teaches the journalism class as well as advising the Debate Club and TIGER INKLINGS staff. Mr. Blumenthal is in charge of public speaking and acts as advisor to the yearbook staff. Dramatics and creative writing are taught by Mr. Maguire, who also directs their extra curricular counterparts, the Campus Players, and the "Last Word" magazine. Mr. Sweezey, who is the director of the Powdered Wigs Musical Society, is in charge of English V, an advanced seminar designed to go more deeply into the literature of Europe. Miss Perry, Debate Club advisor, took over classes for Mr. Greenfield who left full-time teaching to complete his third novel.

The more fundamental courses in English, ranging from general to college preparatory, insure every student a good English background fitted to his abilities and goals. For those who wish to go further in the appreciation and mastery of our language, there are, in addition to a wealth of elective courses, skilled men and women to teach them.

MORRIS SAXE

Say, why don't you be a good egg...

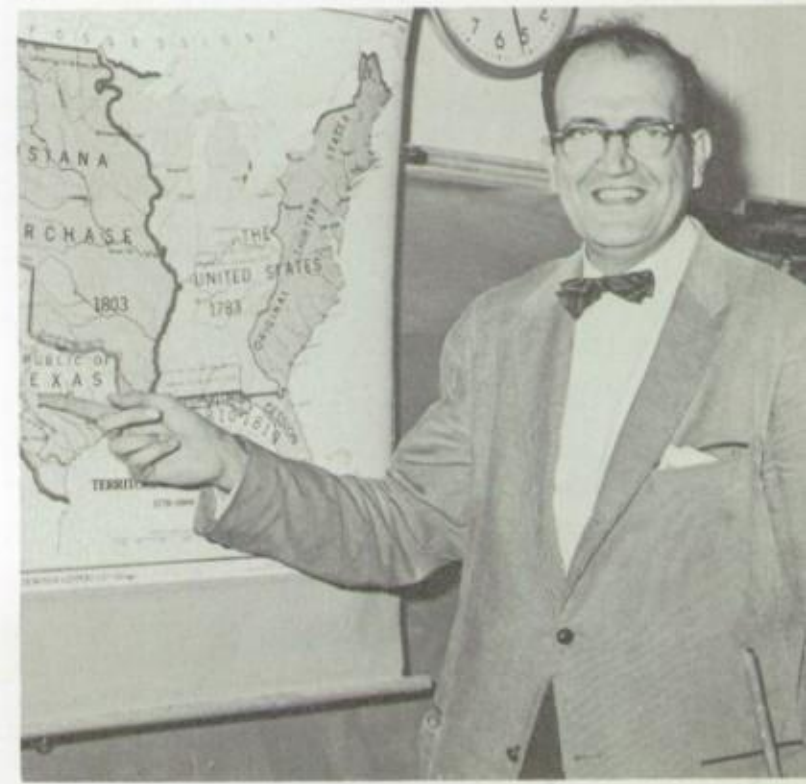

History Department

L. to R., Bruce Hunt, Sylvia Ringel, Hedy Schwartz, Nicholas Econopouly, Raymond Carden, Herbert Livingstone.

Northport's history department has risen to meet this challenge. Its college preparatory courses challenge those students who intend to go on to college; its quick-moving one-year American History course leaves students free to take elective history courses: Foreign Relations, under Mr. Hunt, with its well-informed and sometimes heated discussions; Senior History, taught by Mr. Carden and Mr. Econopouly; and, new this year, Advanced Placement History in which recommended students do college level work. Mr. Econopouly, in addition to his classroom duties, led the Yorker Club, a youth branch of the New York States Historical Society, as it explored colonial times through trips to Sturbridge, Massachusetts, and many local treasure chests of historical lore. He also guided students who taped a series of discussions on Japanese-American themes, which was forwarded to Japanese high school students in a step toward mutual understanding.

What's cooking?

Home Economics

Home economics is an important part of a young girl's education. Many girls do not have an opportunity to learn basic cooking and sewing at home. Through home economics courses these girls are able to get a well-rounded education.

Northport is most fortunate to have both a thoroughly equipped home economics room and a very capable instructor, Mrs. Anne King. Mrs. King, who attended both Cornell and Columbia Universities, has been at Northport for twenty-one years.

Our home economics department has received several honors this year. One student obtained the highest score of all the Senior girls in a county-wide home economics test. Two other students won first prize and another honorable mention in a local dressmaking contest, which was sponsored by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Mechanical Drawing

DONALD CORIE Smile.

Mr. Donald Corie, who has been at Northport for four years, is presently the only teacher in this department. He believes mechanical drawing is as important a medium of description as English itself, and a lot more accurate when structures are involved. According to Mr. Corie, it is an important part of the language education of every well-informed person. Mechanical drawing is, then, the "language of industry." It develops the constructive imagination and the habit of exact thinking.

Shop

L. to R., Richard Mayer, Stephen Phillips.

WILLIAM PORTER
No, it's not an egg beater!

Shop is a department primarily for those boys wishing to train for craft vocations. The staff of this department is composed of three men: Mr. Mayer; Mr. Phillips; and Mr. Porter, the department head, who has been at Northport for thirty-two years.

The courses offered by the department are: general shop (which is a prerequisite to the others), electric shop, printing, general wood, auto mechanics, general metals, and cabinet making. A course lasts for thirty-eight weeks and one point credit is given for each.

Although there are no formally organized clubs, many students return to the shops after school for special project work. This interest on the part of the students is a credit to the department.

Language Department

L. to R., Adele Breaux, Angelo Petullo, Carmen Conte, Betty Robertson.

Foreign languages are becoming increasingly important as the elimination of the language barrier leads to closer relationships between countries and forms a basis for mutual understanding. Hence today stress is placed on the oral or spoken language by the government, secondary schools, and colleges, and there is a trend—perhaps unfortunate—away from the ancient written languages.

Northport, as in other fields, is advanced in languages. We not only have competent teachers, but this year we have been provided with a laboratory where students can hear tape recordings and can record and play back their own voices. This facility has greatly improved the teaching of languages in secondary schools.

Besides using the labs, teachers are doing oral drill work in classes in order to increase the student's power to think and respond quickly in a language. This emphasis on oral language also increases the use of colloquial expressions rather than stilted phrases.

Northport offers to its students the romance languages and Latin, all taught by well-informed instructors. This year we were fortunate to have added to the staff M. Blanchet, French-born and educated. Since all of our language teachers have visited countries of their individual tongues and have excellent accents and first-hand information, our language students are in good hands.

Math Department

L. to R., Joseph Latino, Marie Gange, Mary Lombardo, Charles Kissam.

JOSEPH LATINO

Don't let math interfere with your extra curricular activities!

With the ushering in of the Nuclear Age, mathematics has become increasingly important and those educated in it have received new recognition and honor. The opportunities available to those who love mathematics and are well-trained in it are innumerable. Northport works hard to see that the best possible high school education in mathematics will be offered to the interested student. Our Mathematics Department is one of the finest on Long Island. It offers every course from elementary to College Preparatory Mathematics, from Calculus to Analytic Geometry. Many students leaving Northport for college are placed in advanced classes or receive college credit.

Mr. Latino teaches the course in Calculus and Analytic Geometry and spends much of his free time holding extra classes for interested students. Mr. Kissam teaches College Preparatory Mathematics and is also advisor for the National Honor Society and for the Senior Class. The staff also includes Mr. Duncan, head of audio-visual aids, Mrs. Lombardo, and Miss Gange. All the mathematics teachers are genuinely interested in the student and in seeing that he gets the best possible education. We can be proud that we have such a fine staff in the Mathematics Department.

William Duncan

Science Department

L. to R., John Hosie, John Welker, Gerard Kass, Rosaria Kordal, Joyce Palmer, William Van Houten, Ralph Sonen.

It is important for a school in a community such as ours to maintain a balance between college preparatory and general education classes. While some students go on to college, others go directly into business, and depend on high school for their basic education. Departments such as health, biology, and even chemistry are important in forming a well-rounded adult. These courses are extremely well prepared and taught at Northport, and are useful to both college preparatory and business students.

However, as the pace of education begins to quicken, schools all over the country must begin to offer the college-bound student a more advanced program. Northport is fortunate enough to have three advanced programs, still on a test basis, which are not yet offered widely throughout the country. The P.S.S.C. program, taught by Mr. Hosie for three years, is setting the trend for high school physics programs. Last year our school had the highest average on the final P.S.S.C. exam of any school in the state. Another advanced course is college chemistry taught by Mr. Kass. Students can receive as high as one year's college credit if they fulfill the requirements as set forth in the final exam. Finally, there is Mr. Sonen's B.S.C.S. course in biology now in its first year, which, if successful, is to set the pattern for new high school biology courses.

BERNETTA GENOR
Dental Hygienist

For twenty-six years the teeth of the students at Northport have been cared for by Mrs. Bernetta Genor. Mrs. Genor, who was trained at the school of Oral Hygiene at Rochester, New York, has worked in the high school and in the district to improve the dental hygiene of the students. She feels that care of teeth is very important, especially for the high school age student.

Mrs. Genor is very pleased to be able to aid in the complete education of the students, helping them develop themselves physically as well as mentally.

Mrs. Hawley, the librarian at Northport, has probably one of the most difficult yet least recognized jobs in the school. As librarian, she is responsible for many of the advances made in material available to the students. Our library, excellently equipped and very modern, contains sufficient research material necessary for high school and even college-type projects.

Mrs. Hawley, who has a background as an English teacher, has been very helpful to the yearbook staffs, including this one. We wish to thank her for her contributions and compliment her on the truly excellent work she does at the high school.

CATHERINE HAWLEY
Librarian

Nursing is a career many high school graduates train for, but few train for the job of a teacher-nurse. Mrs. Hayner, who has been a school nurse for twenty-six years and has enjoyed every minute of it, received her nurse's training at Highland Hospital in Rochester. She then obtained a school nurse-teacher certificate and worked at Western Reserve in Ohio.

Besides enjoying her work as a school nurse, Mrs. Hayner works unofficially as a counselor in our school system. She considers counselling, which gives her a chance to study doctors' reports and interpret them for parents and teachers, one of the most rewarding parts of her job.

Last Will and Testament

We, the Seniors of Northport High School, being of sound body and not completely out of our minds, now, at the time of our departure, distribute our possessions and talents to those we leave behind:

LINK ANDERSEN leaves the "thump" to Jim Turner. JACQUIE HALL leaves her lonely heart to Lois Wilson. TONY BECCARIA leaves his bulging biceps to John Langton. JANET HAMPTON leaves her sled to Neil Salonen. NEIL EDWARDS leaves his liveness, speed, and agility to Steve Barnarth. WENDY SMYTH AND ANN LEARY wouldn't leave calculus to their worst enemy. GARY DE ANGELIS leaves reciting poetry while climbing flagpoles. PAULA GREENWOOD leaves her job as photography editor and a camera to Don Mandigo. JACK ENDEE leaves hysterically. LYNN AND CAROLE FAWTHROP leave their differences to the Gruenewald twins. BUD BECKER leaves a happy-go-lucky attitude and miraculous basketball shots for anyone to duplicate. ANN SUTER leaves early so she can arrive at White Plains in time for Sept. classes. JIM GUSTAVSSON leaves to the despair of the Sophomore girls. ANDY BLAKE leaves his clothes to the I.G.Y. SUE SLATTERY leaves her black eyes and JOYCE CABEL leaves her three matching vertebrae to anyone foolish enough to go tobogganing. CAMMIE MACK AND MARTHA WOLFE leave Mr. Maguire much to his relief. BILL HAVERKAMP leaves Mr. Swezey imp-less. PAUL DELANEY leaves his scruples to anyone who can put them to as wise use.

DIANA LUND leaves her cherished Football Queen crown to some lucky Junior girl. PAM HIPWELL leaves in a flurry of red with everyone wondering "Does she or doesn't she?" ARLENE JOHNSON leaves physics to the dogs. GARY WEIS leaves his earnings to the driver education classes in hopes that they will have many a gay time on the road. RICHARD WALZER leaves the Kingston Trio for the Philharmonic. CHET SLASKA leaves in voluble fury for New Frontiers. JANIS FREUDENBERG leaves her coffee making to Martha Wheeler. ED DUNWOODY leaves his voice to Mr. Marenchin in the hope that it will help him get into a play. LEON KALISKI leaves his reticence to Bruce Morrison. KATHY O'HARA leaves her shamrocks to "Irish" Marilyn Merkle. MARY MASTRANGELO leaves Mr. Saxe with a handful of overdue English compositions. RICKY USHER leaves his sense of direction to Mr. Willets to keep him from arriving at the Whitestone Bridge while traveling to Bay Shore. CRAIG JONES leaves his Morris Minor to anyone that can get the blasted thing going. JOHN HARLEY leaves his lady-killing instinct to Mr. Novak. BOB JOHNSON leaves his drollness to everyone. JUDY MUNRO leaves her driving award to Mr. Jacobowitz. MARGE ROCCO leaves the left-over refreshments of the Italian Club to the ants. NANCY OLSON leaves Mrs. Alton alone. GEORGE KAPLAN leaves that demoniacal grin to John Iurka. PAUL KRUSA leaves his wardrobe to Jim Ruck. ART FREDRICKSON leaves, the secret inscription in his coat still intact. AL FROMM doesn't understand but he's leaving anyway. ED FRENCH leaves, stocks and bonds in hand. PAM QUINN leaves her blush to Yvette Saber. CHRISTINE REILLY leaves the idle poor underclassmen and hopes that they soon become the idle rich Seniors. CAROL VACCA leaves in her tiger suit. TONY GASPARRINO leaves the unlimited weight class vacated. DAVE McGARRY leaves Mr. Kissam baffled. SVEIN AND TOBY OM-MUNDSEN leave liking tall girls. PETE NOLAN leaves having succeeded in knowing everything and everybody. CHARLIE NAPOLI leaves a wiser math student and a befuddled study hall teacher. CONNIE WILEY leaves after buying Mr. Saxe a dinner. CHRISTINE SEILER leaves Mr. Krueger sadly. PHYLLIS SCHILLINGER can't leave without saying something. UNCLE RALPH RINALDO leaves his sweatshirt to the consternation of the Sanitation Department. ED RIKER leaves his locks to Al D'Ambrosio. ED YOURDON leaves the loneliest office in the school to Mike Kinhead. CHERYL STOCEK leaves with all her art trophies. ANNE REUSCHLE leaves her quiet way to Dana Roy. JUDY WOOD leaves behind her ability to teach others the delicate art of inhaling. ERNIE KLUG leaves a picture in the sports section which tells more than words ever could. JOHN STAMM leaves "William" in the lurch. PETE WALSH leaves chem. lab. amid broken bottles. BARBARA MARSHALL leaves her wonderful and mystifying sense of logic to all budding geniuses. RICHARD WYDUR leaves his football jokes to Coaches Ryder and Kelly. ELAINE PETITO leaves her tremendous driving ability to Mr. Baitinger, with love. PETE SMITH leaves the Campus Players' treasury to the poor house—nothing equals nothing. G'ANA OERTEL leaves her solutions for the world problems to the United Nations. GAIL TENNANT retains her incredulous stare, to the consternation of Mr. Latino. RUEDI STOCKER leaves his barber to Yul Brunner. KAREN SCHEUERMANN leaves driving for lessons in flying at Idlewild Airport. MARIE WILLIAMS, due to "Necessity," leaves with her arguments much to the relief of Mr. Carden, Mr. Hunt, and Mr. Saxe. Peace now reigns at Northport. DENISE JOHNSON leaves her nervousness to all exam-crammed underclassmen. ANN LAUER leaves her laugh to science. DOUG SMITH leaves his title of "most popular to the richest boy in the Junior Class. CAROL ZARLING finally leaves the Campus Players $10.00 and throws in a script of Finian's Rainbow as an expression of good will. LYN MOHR AND KATHY FARABAUGH leave hoping Dior doesn't raise the hemline next year. BONNIE BERGLUND leaves the missing hockey uniform and hockey stick to Miss Barley with hopes that whoever uses them next year will return them. CHESKA CALLOW leaves New York for California with Mr. Maguire's typewriter. NANCY FARRELL leaves all the Campus Players' props to some other girl that has an objective in mind. NELL HUBBARD leaves the boys of Northport happily. SUSAN HERBERT leaves her masterpieces of art to the newly founded Northport High Museum of Rare Arts and Treasures. KATHY KELLEHER leaves her shy and quiet mannerisms to Bonnie Anderson. GAIL KIDNEY leaves all her wild antics to future class clowns, but most astonishing she leaves the school in one piece. NANCY KRAPP leaves the dramatic class to Karen Gretemeyer for real method acting in her upcoming play "Big Deal." FRAN LA DUCA leaves the Northport High School library fines to anyone who can figure them out—"Good Luck." CADIA LOS leaves still trying to make T.I. meet the deadline. TAMMY LEWIS leaves all her unpublished poems and stories to anyone who wants to say "We knew her when . . ." JANE LOCKWOOD leaves Mr. Saxe to decide if there is a gray, or if everything is either black or white. JUDY GILLESPIE AND SHARON TIERNAN leave their dancing shoes and choreography to Leslie Stodola and hope that she can please Mr. Sweezy. BARBARA LIGON leaves the underclassmen much to her delight. MARGE BLYDENBURGH leaves her quiet and gracious ways to the underclassmen, who certainly could benefit from them. ANN COUE leaves Mr. Marenchin a bottle of aspirins for all the headaches he's had in chorus. GERRY MADDEN leaves all the world problems for Mr. Econopouly to solve. SUE HIGGINBOTHAM leaves her comfort to the Southerners. JUNE GLADDING AND CAROL SPONG leave their cars to the Smithsonian Institute to see if science can discover what makes them run. LINDA LEE leaves her pleasant smile to everyone. JOHN WHELAN AND MIKE INGRAHAM leave the deadlines and Miss Winslow despite the best efforts of Toni Nash. TONI NASH leaves a completed yearbook despite the best efforts of John Whelan and Mike Ingraham. "THE GANG" in G-52 leave Mr. Hosie change of a hern and the mushroom business. The Twirling Trophies are going to leave also if they aren't put in a trophy case. THE SENIORS leave as Mrs. King pushes them out of the Senior Saloon, or is it Salon? THE TORQUE MASTERS peel away in a cloud of smoke. ALL THE SENIOR GIRLS leave much to the regret of Mr. Latino. TO MR. LATINO the Seniors willingly and very gladly leave all his old jokes; we had to laugh at them in class, or FAIL. TO MR. FAZIO, our new assistant principal, and our old guidance counselor, we leave our thanks for all his help and consideration. TO MR. ALLARDICE, our new principal, we leave our deepest appreciation and gratitude for all the assistance and help he has given us. SINCE THE GYMNASIUM has become Krueger Hall, the Seniors wish to extend their appreciation to Mr. Ryder by building him the epitome of modern buildings, Ryder's Wreckhall.

THE SENIORS have already left their mark on the high school—the broken water fountains, the dented lockers, the names written on the desks, the sports banners we won, the haggard teachers, the torn textbooks, and best of all we leave our memory. HOWEVER, the Senior Class will not leave its memories of the four years we've spent at Northport, for they are too precious. We are taking them with us as remembrances for the years to come.

Being of unsound mind, assorted types, and high ideals, we fix our seal to this document, June, 1961.

Well, our junior friends, next fall you shall arrive at the coveted position of Senior. This honor carries with it a number of responsibilities, some of which you are starting to find out about now. Plans for work or college after graduation must be formulated during the next year. Your future plans will be an important part of your life.

This year has been a busy time for you. Perhaps the most important event has been getting your class rings. This seemed to give you one more push up the ladder toward the top. As soon as we, the class of 1961, have left, your pinnacle will almost be reached.

Another big event was the prom for which we know you did a great deal of planning and work—which was greatly appreciated.

Next year you shall need a lot of money. Your bake sales this year as well as the prom, we hope have amply filled your treasury.

One thing everyone has been wondering about—what happened to your truck for the Halloween “Flintstones?”

Good luck, may your Senior year be one of your fondest memories!

Hi, sophomores! Next fall you will have lost your "newness" and shall be some of the "old hands" around Northport.

Bake sales and a dance this past spring, have been your money-making projects. May we offer some friendly advice? Start next year to earn money to try to fill your treasury. You can't possibly realize how important this is until you become Seniors. Then it's too late. So work hard now!

It has seemed as if some of you just could not realize how important our Senior Privileges were to us. We hope that you will help the new sophomores next fall, and will instill in them "proper respect for the mighty seniors." Remember that in one and one-half years you will be Seniors, and we are sure that you will want the cooperation of the underclassmen to help make your last year one to remember. Never forget that it's the little things which count!

Varsity Football

Champions! The word still held a magical quality on Monday, November fourteenth, two days after the Northport Varsity football team had trotted off the field at North Babylon, the proud possessors of the coveted A-1 league crown.

The team had enjoyed a fine season. Winning all six league games and tying a non-league contest, overshadowed the lone loss to a strong Sayville squad. Northport was a captivating team, exciting to watch. Stars in the backfield could bring a crowd to its feet by one sprint, one pass, or one interception. Husky linemen aroused yelps of joy whenever they broke through to make a tackle in the opposing backfield. What was especially thrilling, however, was the thing that so many notables have been talking about—spirit.

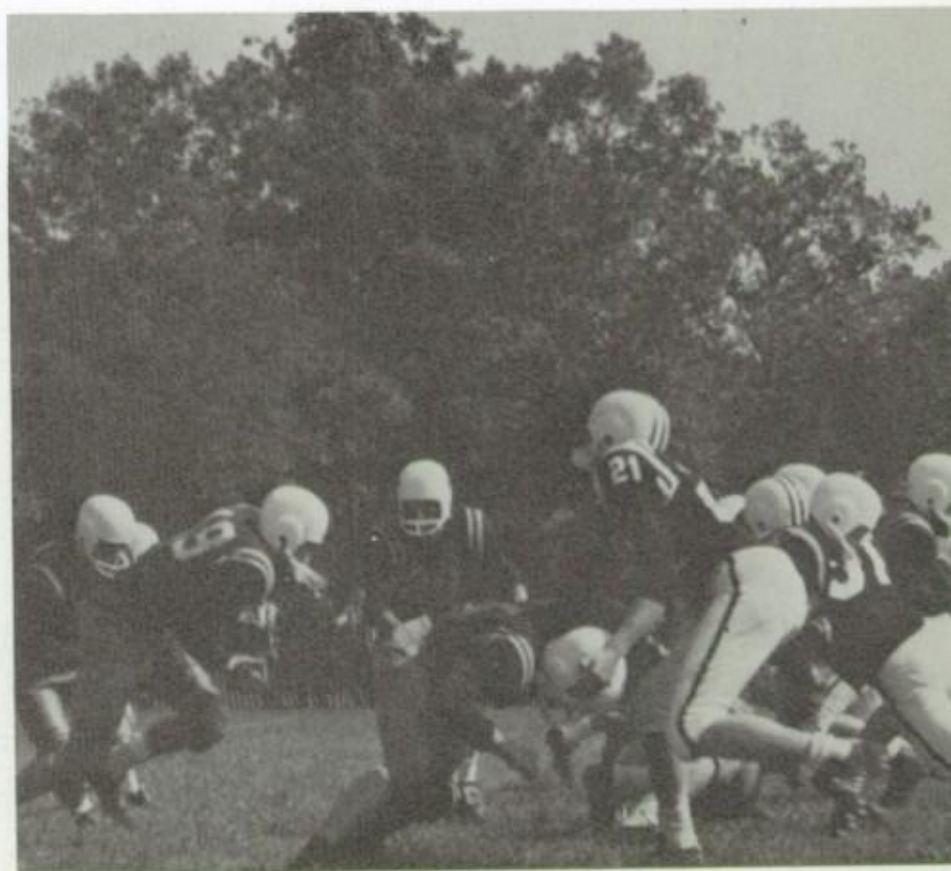

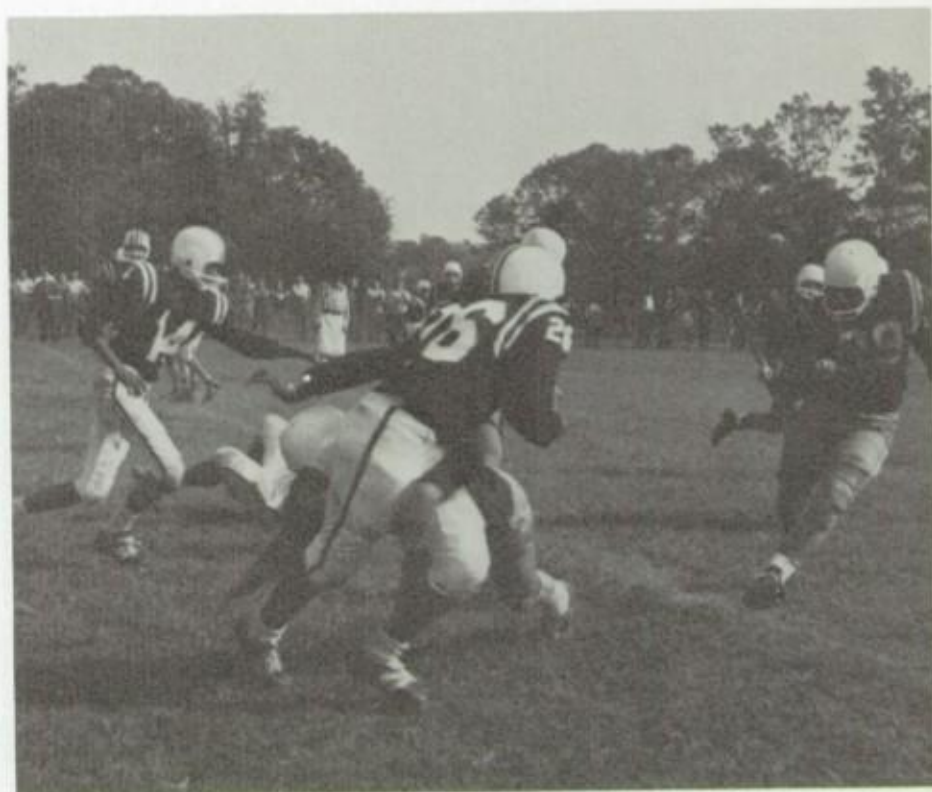

If anyone was responsible for the magnificent spirit generated by the team it was the "Coach of the Year," John Ryder, and his assistants, George Kelly, Len Jacobowitz, Dick Willets, and Herb Livingstone. Daily skull sessions plus hard work on the practice field bound the team together in a determined cohesive unit. So, from the start of the season, Northport was destined for glory. Everything was there—ability, desire, and know-how—all that was needed was a break.

It came early in the second quarter of the South Huntington game. The Wildcats were on top, heavily favored on this Saturday. They came to Northport with a reputation to uphold and had the power to do it. The Tigers had a reputation to build and . . .

South Huntington had jolted the Tigers early, sending a touchdown pass to all-star end Barry Weickel. Early in the second period the seven point lead was still there and the Wildcat offensive machine was at it again, this time on the Tiger five. On the first down a slippery halfback slithered to the three. Northport then called for what was perhaps the most important time out of the year. When play resumed a halfback tried for the clincher around the end—and got nowhere. With everybody standing the visitors tried a third down pass. Like a missile it sped toward the goal line—until a pair of frantic fingers deflected it off course. It was the last chance and the quarterback shouted his signals above the din. The entire Northport team tensed as the ball was snapped on the count of three and was buried beneath the arms of a big fullback. The uproar ceased abruptly as the carrier crashed into the line. The impact echoed throughout the area as everyone held his breath. When the players slowly unplied a mighty cheer went up as the officials spotted the ball a yard from the goal line. Northport was on its way. Champions!

Junior Varsity Football

Although somewhat overshadowed by the varsity, the junior varsity football team captured the admiration of the fans much in the same manner as their big brothers. Excitement was a characteristic of the team that featured a wide open attack built around speed and precision complimented by plain rough 'n tumble football. Coaches Len Jacobowitz and Dick Willets familiarized the team with every conceivable situation on the gridiron so that at the end of the season the lightweight squad wound up with a reputable record.

Hard work was part of the story, sheer talent was the other. Quarterbacks were cool under fire, ball carriers were among the speediest in the league, linemen had brains as well as muscles. Skillful coaching, innate competitiveness, and welcoming encouragement gave the 1960-61 junior varsity football squad a season to remember.

1960 Football Queen

Diana Lund

HOMECOMING

On Friday, October fifteenth, the Northport High School Football Queen and her court were presented to the student body. Miss Diana Lund, the Queen, was escorted by Coach Ryder while her four attendants were escorted by members of our football team.

On Saturday the Queen and her court were honored at half time, and then a dance was held in their honor that evening. The radiant and beautiful Diana was a fitting queen for a championship football team.

Kathy Farabaugh, first runner-up.

Janice Anderson, third runner-up.

Kirsten Brekke, fourth runner-up.

THE FOOTBALL GAME AND FESTIVITIES

On Saturday, October 16, 1960, Northport's football team triumphed over South Huntington's. Ed Wine scored the first touchdown, which was dedicated to Queen Diana. At halftime the band and twirlers entertained, and the Queen, her court, and former queens circled the football field. Ed Yourdon awarded the traditional plaque to our beautiful 1960 Queen, Miss Diana Lund.

Varsity Soccer

The 1960-61 soccer season at Northport terminated with a 4-2 loss to Sayville. The score by no means indicated the type of game played. Spectators as well as the coaches and players agreed that the contest was the finest played by a Northport soccer team.

The game typified the Northport season, the best yet. The respectable 6-4-2 record placed the club high in the standings of the competitive A-1 league and served notice to all that Northport High School was a coming soccer powerhouse. Head Coach Don Corie and Assistant Coach Otto Baitinger attributed the fine showing to hard work and good spirit and expressed hopes that the same would continue through the next season.

Northport's success may be illustrated by various honors garnered by individual players. On the all-scholastic team were Tom White and Joe Correia, with Ron Dibb, Rod Dibb, Brock Shiffer, Mike Ingraham, Larry Cole, Bob Haverkamp, and John Campbell receiving honorable mention.

The large turnout for the soccer team enabled the coaches to organize a junior varsity team under the guidance of Mr. Baitinger. The team's brilliant showing bolstered Northport's future hopes considerably. Even with a hard nucleus of seniors gone, Coach Corie hopes to bring the championship to Northport "perhaps next year."

We're sorry to announce that the girls' hockey team didn't succeed as well as our football team. They may have lost in numbers, but not in spirit. During the past season they had four games, lost three and tied one with Sachem. The wins were credited to Port Jefferson (3-0), West Babylon (2-1), and Kings Park (3-0). It may be said that Toni Nash scored the only goal during the season.

At Play Day the Northport team lost two games and tied one. Bonnie Berglund received the outstanding player award from Northport.

Even if they didn't win, the girls had a great time together which is most obvious from the pictures taken of the team—by both amateur and professional photographers.

"High Hopes" was the theme of this year's volleyball team. They won every match during the season with ridiculous scores. A match is a series of three games and the winner of the match is the winner of two of the three games. The scores of the games were:

Northport 15	Northport 15
Sachem 2	East Islip 3
Northport 15	Northport 15
Sachem 1	East Islip 3
Northport 14
Huntington 7

Play Day, held at Northport, saw the shattering of many hopes. Northport was defeated by both Port Jefferson and West Babylon—a sad end for such a successful season.

*Denotes League Games

The locker room was happily noisy and the score Northport 56 Port Jefferson 46 still shone on the scoreboard downstairs in the Northport gymnasium. The athletes in the room slapped backs, shook hands and verbally congratulated themselves. They had a right to. The Northport basketball team had just captured the A-1 league basketball title. They were the undisputed champions.

Nobody would have thought that a team whose tallest regular player was shorter than the manager of the team would win the trophy. Nobody would have dared to predict that a team composed of ten players would finish the season with an overall record of 13-2 and would win all but one of their league contests. No, no one in his right senses would have believed that a team guided by two first-year coaches and classified as a "possibility" would emerge as champions. They would have said that it couldn't be done.

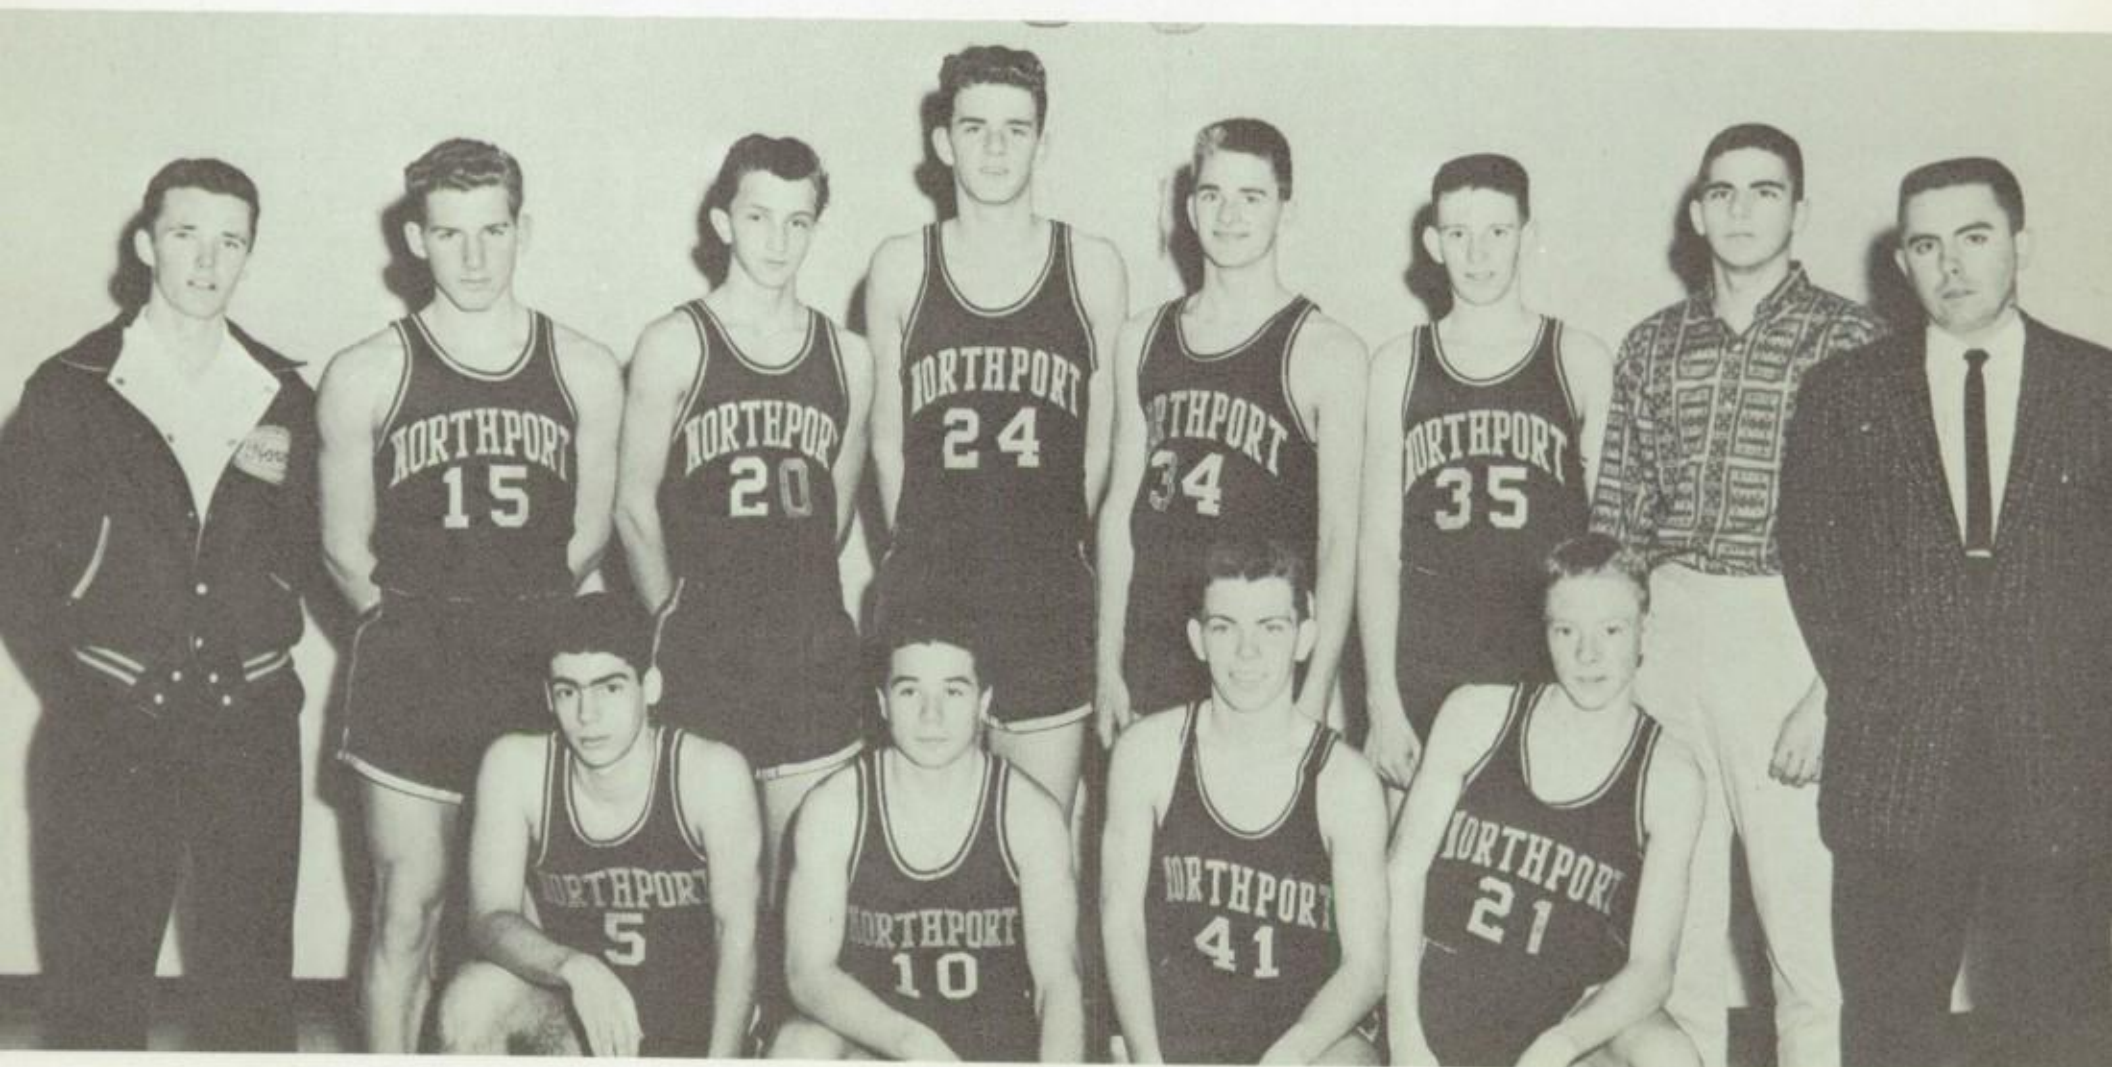

Yet it was done. It was done by a center who despite his comparative height defect proved himself inches taller than his opponents when it came to guts and effort. It was done by a forward who had a talented hand in everything and was a real clutch player, and by another forward who shot for percentage and played as though his life depended upon the outcome of the game. It was done by the slickest backcourt combination in the county. One amazed friend and foe with a fantastic arsenal of shots combined with savvy and competitiveness. The other was there when he was needed, setting up shots with a magical twist of the hand or sinking the winning basket from 30 feet away. It was done by a corps of "sixth men" who gave everything that was called for on the hardwood. It was done by a pair of clear-headed coaches, experienced in their trade despite their youthful countenances, who made a great team out of a good one.

Yes, players, coaches and plain spectators by the hundreds filled the Northport gym every Friday night to see Gary DeAngelis on the fast break, Buddy Becker on the driving shot, Linc Andersen on the decisive foul line, Jim Ruck in action under the boards, Ed Wine just about anywhere on the court, sometime-regular Kevin McCoy jump shooting, Don Jenkins and Frank Rose and George Saltz scrambling and fighting and scoring a timely basket, and Rich Conklin spearing a rebound. They saw coaches Len Jacobowitz and Dick Willets operating the success story from the helm.

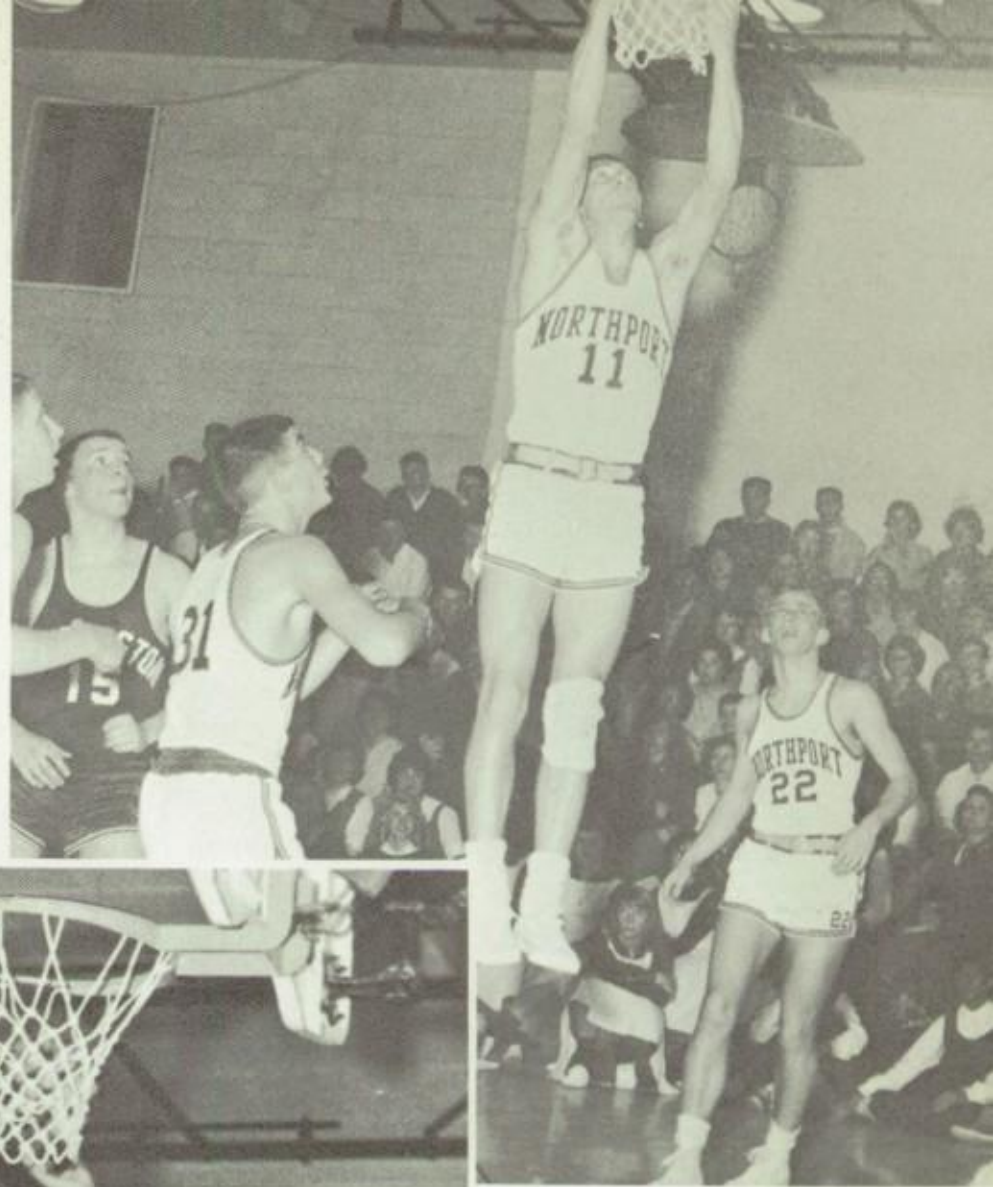

The fans were there on Fridays but the gym was strangely vacant on week nights. The team was there, however. Even champions need practice.

Girls' Basketball

The girls basketball season was a twintable. In our first game, Port Jefferson doubled our score. Next we quadrupled East Islip's score. The third game was again a triumph over Brentwood. The competition grew steeper, however, in the Hauptauge game. We were defeated by one basket in an overtime.

On February 25, 1961 circumstances were against us in the beginning—we had no bus to take us to Playday. Coach Tiffany rallied to Miss Barlie's plea for help and drove half of us to South Huntington. At Playday, we defeated Central Islip and Port Jeff. In the third game, W. Babylon beat us, thus ending our chances for the banner. Lee Gill was chosen for the most outstanding player award from Northport.

Although our spirit, enthusiasm, coaching, equaled that of the boys, we're sorry we could not duplicate their record.

The still growing Northport Wrestling team is able to boast of a few wins this year—a record. The Tigers started off on the right foot by downing Newfield 31-12. Other wins included Syosset, North Babylon, and West Babylon. At the close of the season in February the record showed four wins and nine losses, certainly an improvement over last year.

Outstanding contenders included John Donarummo (7 wins, 3 ties, 1 loss), Steve Hubbard (6 wins, 1 loss), and Ken Steinberg (10 wins, 1 loss), and Neil Cinquemani (6 wins, 6 losses).

These and the other members of the team deserve much credit for their hard work and persistence. They have set a fine example for future Northport teams. Coaches Buonomo and Krapf certainly illustrated what hard work can do.

Gymnastics

Northport's talented gymnastic team added a new ingredient this year—a coach specializing in gymnastics. Al Kirschner from Ohio produced a winner this year as the team defeated the powerful Huntington and South Huntington teams but lost to both in return appearances. Harborfield's gymnastic team also edged out the Tigers.

Far from being discouraged, the team has high hopes for next season. This year's squad was made up of juniors for the most part, and such winners as Ricky Wright, Chris Cole, Bill Keller, George Oertel, and Dick Schlichting will be back next year to lead the team. No, 1961 was far from a disquieting year.

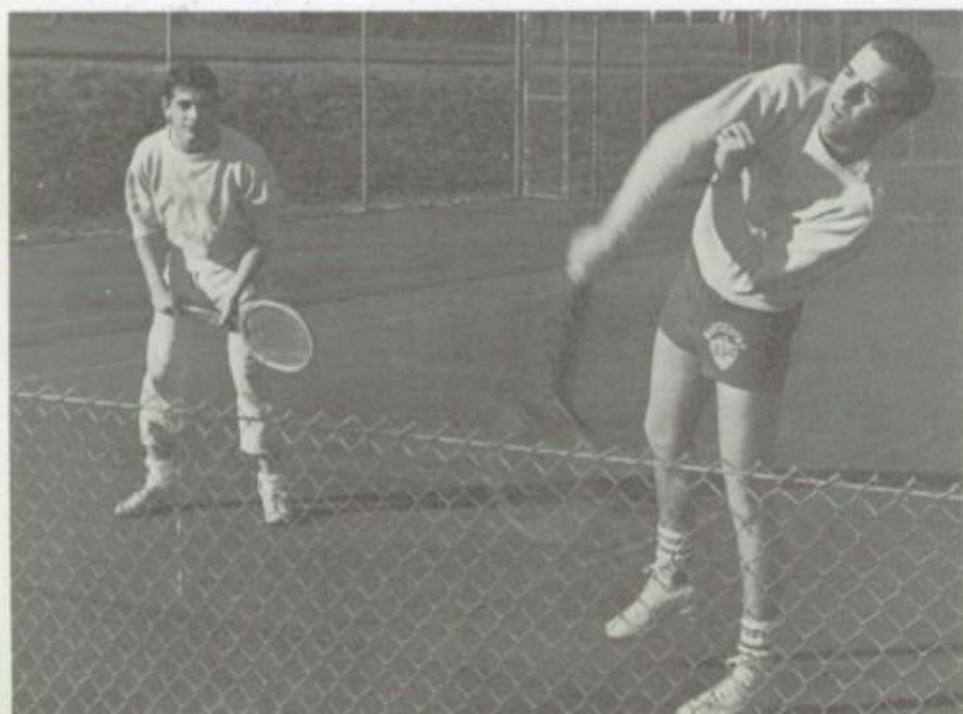

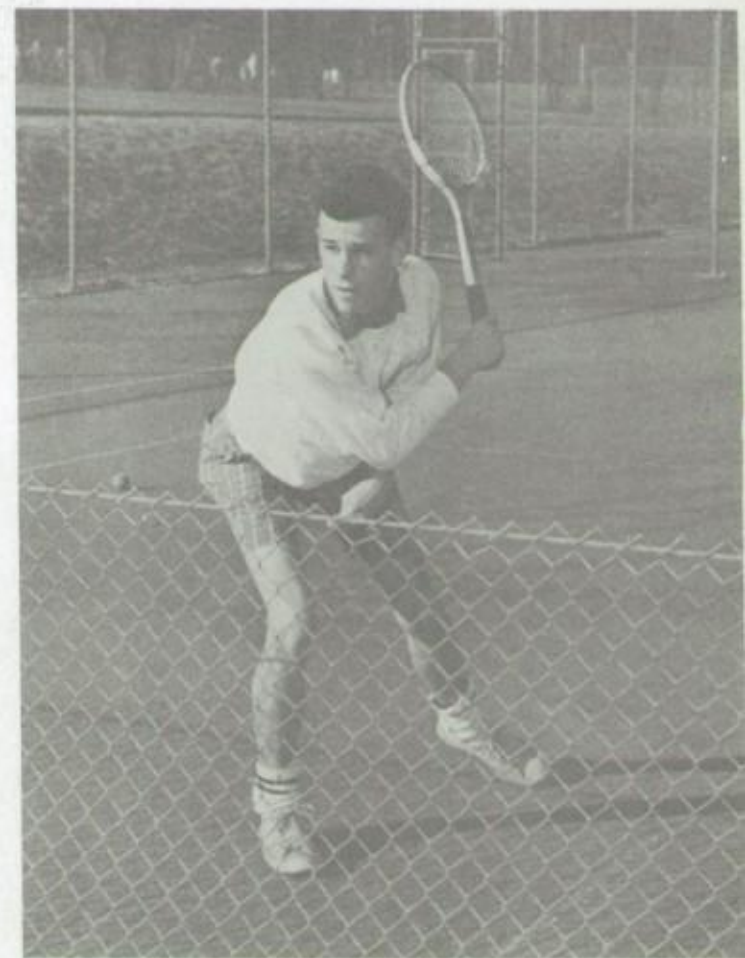

TENNIS

Tennis

Coach Otto Baitenger is indeed optimistic about the tennis team's chances and should be. Returning from last year's contending squad are Lincoln Andersen, Mike Ingraham, John Ahearn, John Giannoni, Dick Gotta, George Saltz, John Whelan, Bruce Morrison, Kevin McCoy, and Pete Walsh. The league is reorganized but nevertheless includes the Huntington team that kept Northport from the championship two years in a row. The rise of Northport as a tennis power has not yet been halted and will not this season.

Bowling

This year's bowling club, under the direction of Mr. Corie and Coach Tiffany, got underway with a blazing start. After eliminations, the first eight top bowlers were picked for the Varsity team.

This year's Varsity consisted of R. Fredrickson, D. Beithcher, E. Riker, E. Siedlecki, J. Allen, D. Vander-soff, R. Oddsen, and J. Martin. Compared to last year, this year's bowling team has done considerably better in league competition.

Although we cannot mention everyone, we felt that the non-Varsity bowlers who gave up their time and effort to the success of the bowling club should be remembered.

LaCrosse

1961 marks the first year of organized lacrosse in Northport and it should be a team to remember. Composed largely of the football squad that brought home the championship cup, it is under the leadership of the same coach—John Ryder. These two ingredients should provide Northport with some capable stickmen as well as a season loaded with thrills . . . and spills. The squad is sure to engineer a long lease for Lacrosse in Northport.

BASEBALL

Baseball

The 1961 varsity baseball squad doesn't intend to be outdone by the football and basketball teams—it too is bound for the championship of the A-1 league.

It should get it. Coached by able Bob Krapf the team is all veteran. Returning lettermen from previous seasons dot the infield and outfield, including the feared keystone combination of shortstop Ed Wine and second baseman Bud Becker, two leading candidates for all-star status.

The team's leading asset is power. Countless four baggers should shoot from the big clubs of Chuck Hazzard, Ed Wine and Ernie Klug, while Ralph Rinaldo should blaze his fastball past opposing sluggers with ridiculous ease. All in all it looks like a third cup for Northport.

Varsity Club

To promote male athletics in all forms at Northport High School, and to bring these activities under one organization are the main goals of the Varsity Club of Northport High. Composed of Varsity award winners, this club has rapidly established itself as a hard working, industrious group.

Among its notable achievements this year have been the innovation of the Tri-High League and the Alumni-Faculty Basketball game, the running of the concession at Finian's Rainbow, plus the athletic banquet and the second annual Olympiad.

This year, with many new and challenging responsibilities, the Varsity Club has shown that it not only welcomes the added work, but that this work brings out the ability and leadership of its members.

Leader's Club

The Northport High Leader's Club is composed of girls chosen by teachers and fellow students for their leadership. It is a service club that offers its aid to any community or school project. This year, besides its regular adoption of a Christmas family, it served a P.T.A. dinner in honor of the new superintendent of schools, Dr. Bernard Schneider, co-sponsored a Square Dance with the Varsity Club, and continued its daily sale of candy after school to earn money which it contributes to worthy causes.

This club, under the sponsorship of Miss Beatrice Barley, tries to live up to the high ideals which are set forth in the constitution, and its success depends upon the membership.

The Campus Players

The Campus Players Dramatics Club is one which has become an institution at N.H.S. Just finishing its eleventh season, it has brought a succession of hilarious comedies to our stage under the direction of Mr. John Maguire. This year, for the first time, the Campus Players presented a strictly dramatic play, Stalag 17. A success at the box office, "Stalag" will almost certainly lead to more fine dramatic entertainment by the Campus Players.

The Powdered Wigs

The Powdered Wigs Musical Society of N.H.S. has earned itself a magnificent reputation within a few years. The club was started in 1957 by Mr. R. Sweezey because of the split sessions which existed at that time. The Powdered Wigs have turned away from straight comedy productions and now concentrate on producing one musical each year. Last year the first of these productions, Damn Yankees, was presented. This year Finian's Rainbow was selected and presented on March 16th, 17th, and 18th. The students of N.H.S., together with the citizens of our community, appreciate and look forward to the good work of the Powdered Wigs.

National Honor Society

One of the highest honors a student in high school may attain is that of being elected to the National Honor Society. The qualifications which a junior or senior must have show how difficult it is to be awarded the distinction of becoming a member of this elite group. Only 5 per cent of a Junior Class and 15 per cent of a Senior Class may be elected to the society. Although students must be in the upper third of their class, scholarship is not the only requirement for membership. A candidate is also judged on his leadership, his service to the school and community, and his character. To be elected, a student must receive 25 per cent of both the student and faculty vote. As you can see, those wearing the pin of the National Honor Society really have something to be proud of!

The twirlers of N.H.S. are really something for us to be proud of. Organized in 1957, they had as their teacher Mr. McShea and as their sponsor Mr. Krueger. From that time they have progressed rapidly with the help of these two men. When our twirlers are not marching with our band during football season, they are competing in state-wide and sectional contests. In the school year 1959-60 they won the New York State Championship in Military Marching for their division. N.H.S. looks forward enthusiastically to more and more wonderful entertainment from these girls.

THE GENERAL ORGANIZATION

wishes to thank the entire student body for their outstanding cooperation during the past year. Without such backing, the G. O. could not have had as successful a year. "May the power of the G. O. continue to be vested in the individual."
